BART taxpayers hit for European junket costs

Second in a series
By JUSTIN ROBERTS

The only reason the Bay Area Rapid Transit District hasn't gone bankrupt and cut off train service is because state legislators last year voted to save BART from that fate.

The Legislature did it by continuing the half-cent sales tax with which residents of the district have subsidized BART since 1968.

BART's perpetual poverty pleas — and the need for reform in the district — helped elect a new board of directors last November. One of the "reformers" swearing to save BART during his campaign was Elmer Cooper of San Francisco.

But, based on directors' expense accounts examined by The Times, Cooper has been liberal in spending much-needed BART money on himself.

In July BART paid Cooper $2,142.48 for expenses he charged to the district. Averaging almost $500 per week, Cooper's claim reported:

"Meals within the district" at a cost to taxpayers of $428.75. Telephone services (outside BART offices) amounted to $375.74.

Cooper also billed BART for $175 for postage and he added $350 for a "staff assistant."

BART's Oakland headquarters building maintains attractive quarters and generous services for the district's board of directors. These include telephones — including secretaries to place calls or take messages — a secretarial pool for letter-writing and a staff assistant available to perform whatever other services the directors may request. There is also a comfortable lounge for the directors and there are full office and postal facilities availble for directors at the Lake Merritt headquarters.

Cooper's July expense account, which was approved for payment by Board President Richard O. Clark, also included $695.99 which Cooper noted in his report as follows: "Nice (Hotel bill is the last bill from my trip in May)."

That trip to Nice, France cost BART some $4,000 after Cooper decided to attend a transit meeting in Nice. The junket took him at public expense to Holland, Denmark and France. Although BART paid the bills, there were no transit meetings then scheduled in Amsterdam, Copenhagen, or Paris.

To date, Cooper has not publicly shared with other BART directors or the public the information gathered at the transit meeting in Nice, although it cost the public a substantial sum.

Despite BART's poverty, Cooper's expenditure of $428.74 in July in restaurants show no supportive information that indicates why he spent the money or who he was entertaining at public expense.

Cooper's claim of $175 for postage is shown in two canceled checks. They are personal checks showing his home address — rather than "Cooper and Company" checks. One is dated July 9, 1975, for $150, and another is for $25, dated July 14. In both cases they were made payable to the U.S. Postmaster — but in neither case is any evidence given in the expense reporting as to why Cooper spent $175 of BART's funds for postage sufficient to mail 1,750 first class letters.

Cooper's July expense reports shows a billing from the "Afro-American Council on Higher Education" for various services apparently included in Cooper's July claim of $375.74 for "telephone" services. Items include such charges as "excess message units, tracers relays and patches, radio pages, answering service basic charges, basic monthly charges for radio paging and address and mail service."

The invoice is marked "payment recieved $285.80" and it is dated June 25, 1975. The invoice is made out to Account Number 00156. Each of the items billed for is dated and in its own accounts, BART stamped the bill "Paid" on Aug.

Valley officials spur new north-south link

LIVERMORE — This city's pursuit of the Isabel Avenue by-pass of State Hwy. 84 very well may be the answer to Alameda County Supervisor John Murphy's problems.

One leg of the proposed by-pass would connect Stanley Boulevard to I-580 and could render unnecessary public access along El Charro Road between those two points.

El Charro Road now provides private access onto I-580 for two of the sand and gravel firms along Stanley Boulevard and the county is receiving pressure to open the road to the public, as once promised.

Although Murphy has not come out and openly endorsed the Isabel Avenue by-pass, he stated at a recent meeting of the sand and gravel committee that he has instructed Herb Crowle, county public works director, to expedite studies of the by-pass.

The route, heartily endorsed by Livermore, is seen by Murphy as the answer to complaints by Pleasanton that the county has failed to develop El Charro Road as a north-south link from Stanley Boulevard to I-580.

His opinion on the matter is important because Livermore needs financial assistance from the county in order to purchase 19 acres of H.C. Elliot owned property south of Las Positas Boulevard necessary for the route.

Low appraisal of the land is $95,000; high, $205,000. Livermore has asked the county to assume 45 per cent of the low appraisal cost with the city picking up the remaining 55 per cent.

Murphy has been sympathetic to the city's request, according to Livermore City Manager Bill Parness. The supervisor Thursday informed Parness that he was favorably inclined to ask his fellow board members to finance the 45 per cent share of the low appraisal figure.

Murphy's request is expected to appear on the board of supervisors' agenda before the end of the year.

The Isabel Avenue by-pass first was proposed and approved by the State Commission of Highways in the late 1950's as a route 84 freeway from Vallecitos Road to Hwy. 580. The new four-mile freeway would re-route traffic around the west side of Livermore instead of onto First Street, which runs through the center of the city.

The project, however, never got high on the state's priority list and as monies for freeway construction continued to tighten, the state two years ago decided to drop the by-pass proposal.

It was then that Livermore approached the state and asked the Highway Commission if it would keep the re-routing plans alive if the city and county footed the bill for the remaining land acquisition necessary for the project. (The state already had purchased land along Isabel Avenue south of Stanley Boulevard to the Holm Well Park.)

Late February of this year the state gave its okay, downgraded the freeway to a highway, and Livermore began negotiations for the Elliot property.

Other land necessary for the by-pass (looking north I-580 — to south — Vallecitos Road) is: additional right-of-way along what essentially is the Kitty Hawk Road frontage road adjacent to I-580; additional right-of-way along Kitty Hawk Road; a small strip, less than an eighth of a mile, south of Las Positas Boulevard and between where Kitty Hawk Road ends and the Elliot property begins; the Elliot property; the Woeffel property, which extends to Stanley Boulevard; (the state owned land along Isabel Avenue), and a remaining one and one-half miles of privately owned property south of the state land to Vallecitos Road.

Looking at the Stanley Boulevard to I-580 leg of the by-pass, condemnation proceedings have been begun by the city for both the Woeffel and Elliot properties and the acquisition of the additional right-of-way along Kitty Hawk Road and its frontage road are not considered much of a problem.

According to Livermore Public Works Director Dan Lee, the Isabel Avenue highway is considered essential to the city because it would divert traffic from the downtown business area and provide a necessary north-south traffic pattern for the west side of the city.

"If it doesn't go ahead, we've got a big void in our major system of streets," explained Lee.

A new push for Isabel Avenue

The campaign to gain a north-south link between the cities of Livermore and Pleasanton took a new turn this week with efforts to revive Isabel Avenue as the "bypass route" for both those communities. This aerial view shows the existing El Charro Road, which is closed to public use; an alternate El Charro proposal nearer Pleasanton (top of photo); and existing Isabel Avenue, as it might be extended north from Stanley to I-580, there bending west along a frontage road to pick up the Airport Interchange with the freeway. Livermore is in the foreground of this photo, which was taken by R.L. Copeland.

Valley students support PE elective

PLEASANTON — More than 80 per cent of those students polled at Amador Valley and Dublin High Schools have indicated they would take physical education in the upper grades if it were made elective.

The question was one of six presented to 283 boys and girls at all levels (frosh through senior) at Dublin High and 108 boys at Amador Valley High.

Results were presented Thursday night during the second meeting of the Physical Education Elective Committee at the District Educational Center.

The survey covered 283 students at Dublin or about one out of every six students. A sample was made amongst Foothill High students, also, but the results were not immediately available.

Asked to rate 15 activities, placing a "1" beside a favorite and so on down to last or 15th, the Amador students polled selected golf as the most attractive activity. That activity was 13th on the Dublin list.

Following in order behind golf for Amador students were tennis, volleyball, fleetball, softball, basketball, rock climbing, weight training, archery, badminton, trampoline, jogging, cycling, slim trim (exercises to music) and dance.

Dublin students polled selected softball as "Number One." Following that were tennis, basketball, volleyball, cycling, archery, trampoline, badminton, fleetball and rock climbing. Dance was also last with Dublin students.

Asked, "Do you like P.E.," 101 out of 108 Amador students checked "yes." Eighty-seven per cent of the Dublin students polled also checked "yes."

On "Can P.E. be replaced by athletics," 56 per cent of the Amador students said "Yes" compared to about 55 per cent for Dublin.

Asked what they would take in place of P.E., Dublin students indicated a preference for wood shop, then metal shop.

Neil Sweeney, assistant superintendent for instructional services in the Amador district, said concern had been expressed that elective P.E. would be expensive and would strongly affect class sizes in other areas.

Sweeney said the district staffs classes on the average, taking the number of students in any subject field and dividing that by 26 to find the number of teachers needed per class.

District average for physical education is 38.6 students per class. A total of 4,214 students in the district take P.E. and the district has 109 teachers available to instruct.

Sixteen of the total 36 committee members were present.

VCSD board candidate Waterson vows fight for zoning controls

By her own admission, Kathie Waterson isn't one to sit around and complain. "When I have a gripe, I get up and do something about it," she said.

Waterson is currently running for one of three openings on the Valley Community Services District (VCSD) Board of Directors.

Waterson's gripe is unplanned development in the Dublin-San Ramon area. As founder and president of Silvergate Homeowners Association, Waterson has been fighting unchecked growth.

"The placing of apartments, condominiums and commercially-zoned businesses in residentially-zoned areas is unwanted and unneeded," she declared.

"We need another shopping center in this area like a hole in the head when we've got two already dying."

Waterson said there are limits to the capacity of any sewer treatment plant, and as a board member she would act to see that "the development in the area doesn't exceed the ability of the plant to treat sewage."

To Waterson more development means more taxes to provide increased services. "We're taxed to the limit right now. People are fed up."

She would like to see the board "lay down more direct suggestions as to building."

Waterson is opposed to the incorporation of Dublin with Pleasanton or any other city.

"Right now Dublin doesn't have the industrial tax base to support itself. The burden on the homeowners would be unbearable."

She said incorporation would also force both cities to take on "more problems than they can handle."

She favors the establishment of year-round programs for teenagers at Shannon Park Community Center. Admitting there are already a few programs in existence, she argued these are mostly summer events, and said Shannon closes at 5 p.m.

"There's a real problem with these kids not having anything to do. They hang around the streets, and that plants seed for terrible trouble later on."

Waterson referred to the smoking of marijuana and drinking in Mapes Park.

"I think we should set up something constructive. Let's ask the teeneagers for their ideas. I don't think anyone's asked them about the kind of programs they'd like to see," Waterson said.

Waterson cites as qualifications for election to the VCSD board her success as president of Silvergate Homeowners Association. She has served as Nielsen School PTA publicity chairwoman, is a five-year Dublin resident, and has been active in the Mormon church.

Environmentalists favor tighter garbage controls

Recommended changes to Alameda County's Solid Waste Management Plan "would totally invalidate county-wide planning efforts and place primary control of solid waste planning firmly in the virtually unregulated hands of the Oakland Scavenger Company," an East Bay environmentalist group charged last week.

Answering an Oakland Scavenger Company letter sent to cities throughout the county earlier this month, Political Action Coalition for the Environment (PACE) spokesman James Maresca said the Solid Waste Management Plan Advisory Committee's (SWMPAC) "two and one-half year planning process would be invalidated and the plan rendered meaningless."

Alameda County has been working on the project since the passage of Senate Bill 5 mandating the implementation of a plan. Counties throughout the state must approve their plans by the first of the year.

Oakland Scavenger Company President Peter Borghero charged the recommendations by SWMPAC "could seriously effect our ability to continue to provide the level of service enjoyed in the past and our ability to provide a long term solution to the solid waste problem."

He also urged elimination of "any language in the plan which will prohibit or delay Oakland Scavenger Company from proceeding immediately with its long range plans in accordance with standard permit procedures."

Principle bone of contention between the two appears to be SWMPAC's recommendation "that no major long-term commitment, either to private or public enterprise, be made until adequate study and comparison is made of efficiency and costs of collection, processing, resource recovery, energy production and disposal."

OSC says it has made financial commitments exceeding $1 million, "and construction must begin within months if we are to keep up with waste removal in the East Bay."

In responding to Borghero, Maresca wrote SWMPAC's Dr. Hiram Wolch charging "no major commitment should be made that might be so contrary to SWMPAC's ultimate recommendations as to make them impossible to implement."

Maresca also claims OSC's charges that creation of a County Solid Waste Management Board would have a large staff and require an annual budget in excess of one-half million dollars are "totally unsubstantiated" and "a figment of someone's imagination."

None of the recommendations "requires the full-time services of a professional staff person," he continues, and "if the institutional concepts are accepted, presumably the County Administrator and Board of Supervisors would determine actual staff requirements."

OSC also wants the recommended county board dropped and reconsidered only if there is a need "to finance a large scale energy recovery program of $50 million or more" in the future.

"This would allow OSC to take its own direction in solid waste planning without supervision by any County-wide public agency," Maresca counters. "There would be no control over the planning direction until it was well underway and possibly irreversible."

To allow any one of the serveral alternatives now under study to proceed before all the alternatives are evaluated "is to proceed in semi-blindness," he charged.

Maresca also recommends placing responsibility for waste removal at the local level with the creation of a joint powers agency to.

Where Borghero defends the Joint Refuse Rate Committee and asks cities to consider expanding its role, Maresca claims progress with the rate group "has been slow and cost data for what is essentially a public utility appear to be regarded by the Committee as proprietary."

The committee could serve as a regulatory vehicle until a comprehensive couty-wide planning and regulatory agency in compliance with state legislation is created, Maresca adds.

PACE also claims "fragmentation and laxity of enforcement of health and zoning ordinances ... are common knowledge," and agrees with SWMPAC's recommendation for the creation of an enforcement bureau.

OSC's Borghero claimed operation and maintenance of sites "is monitored and inspected by several government agencies," including the county's health department, water district and department of public works, and the Regional Water Quality Control Board (RWQCB), Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, and city public works agencies.

He recommends the appointment of a County Solid Waste Coordinator within existing agencies but directly responsible to the board of supervisors.

BART taxpayers hit

18 — the date the district issued a $2,142.48 check covering Cooper's July expense report.

However, an invoice identical in all but one major detail was included in the expenses paid by BART on July 10.

The amount was the same. The items charged were exactly the same. The total charged for services was the same and even the dates in billing and individual items and the sequence are the same. The invoice date is the same, and the account number — 00156 — is the same and the type is the same.

The invoices indicatethat this is the same billing that was included in Cooper's report for the period ending June 30. The major difference is that, instead of the bill being submitted by the "Afro-American Council on Higher Education" as it was for July, the identical billing for June was issued by an entity named "Excutive Assistance" which is listed in the yellow pages as an answering service and employment agency. Executive Assistance's telephone number is 861-9204. Cooper, who lists himself professionally as an "urban planner" in his BART biography, has a phone listing for Cooper and Company that is 863-9204. The last four digits are identical to the number of the employment agency

The Afro-American Council on Higher Education which alsoprovided Cooper with an invoice for his expense account, has a phone listing identical to Cooper's: 863-9204.

Cooper's business address is posted with BART as Suite 907, Grosvenor Plaza, San Francisco. The Afro-American Council on Higher Education is listed as having a Fox Plaza address in San Francisco, and Executive Assistance is located at 1390 Market St. or Fox Plaza.

All three addresses turn out to be the same building and all three are located in Suite 907 that Cooper lists as his address.

Cooper's billing of $695.99 in July for hotel bills in Nice, France, followed a June expense report which included $837.44 for his stay in the Plaza Hotel in Copenhagen, Denmark; the Okura Amsterdam in Amsterdam,The Netherlands, and the Hotel Crillon in Paris.

Combined with the $695.99 in Nice hotel bills, that puts Cooper's lodgings alone during the taxpayer-paid junket at $1,533.43.

Although Cooper ostensibly took the trip to attend the Nice transit meeting, this reporter heard him telling other BART directors last January that he planned aEuropeon vacation in the spring.

Cooper also billed BART for $329.66 for restaurants in 31 separate claims during the 30-day month of June. In June he also charged BART $350 for "secretarial assistance" and noted in his report that he would submit canceled checks later to cover that amount. He supported this claim subsequently with a check dated June 30 for $200 payable to a Dolores Cameron. Ms. Cameron was also named on a $250 check written by Cooper and dated July 31, that he included in his July expense report.

Cooper's May expenses included $2,208.08 for air fare which included a stop in Washington D.C. before going to Europe.

Although out of the district for 18 days in May, Cooper managed to charge up restaurant bills amounting to $746.33 which he listed as meals "within the district" during May. He also drew $360 in $20-per-day per diem payments during his junket abroad. Per diem payments are given to cover meals and incidentals for directors while on BART business out of the district.

Cooper's expenses billed to BART during the four months between January and April were also high, but they reflect a period in which he was acting as chairman of BARL's general manager selection committee.

Reports for those months show that in January, he collected only $299.39; February showed $1,934.56, not counting another $376 billed directly to BART; $1,837.47 in March, including $247.19 for meals billed as being "for others" and $200 in per diem payments from which his own meals are supposed to come whileoutside the diszgict, and $2,105.13 for April which culminated in the hiring of a new general manager.

SR boy sues schools

A 12-year-old San Ramon student is suing the San Ramon Unified School district seeking $200,000 damages for alleged eye injuries.

The suit, filed on behalf of Joseph Ulricksen by his attorney James Wickersham of Oakland, alleges the district was negligent in allowing the injury to occur last Jan. 17.

Wickersham said the youth was struck in the eye by a rock thrown by another student at the Country Club School, 7534 Blue Fox Way, San Ramon, during an afternoon play period.

He alleged that school officials were negligent in supervising the play activity.

He said young Ulricksen's pupil of his left eye is slightly enlarged as a result of the injury, making him sensitive to light.

Pleasanton police arrest two Fort Ord men in rape report

PLEASANTON — A 16-year-old girl was kidnapped in Fremont, driven to a deserted parking lot on Bernal Ave. and raped by two men Friday night, police reported yesterday.

The two men were arrested as they began to drive from the Jaycees' parking lot at 9:22 p.m. Friday. They were identified as 18-year-old Jimmy Ellis and 20-year-old Jackie Follie, both stationed at Fort Ord Army Base.

Police said the girl was forced into the two men's car in Fremont, driven to the unlit parking lot and raped by both men. Patrol Commander Lt. Dave Freeman, who was off-duty at the time and driving an unmarked vehicle, noticed the car and became suspicious.

He made a routine traffic stop on the car, and while checking the two men's identification, a girl came out of the field sobbing, and told of the rape and kidnapping.

Freeman, assisted by Officer Bill Sweeney, placed the suspects under arrest. They were taken to Santa Rita prison and booked, with bail set for each man at $20,000.

The victim was taken to Valley Memorial Hospital for observation and released shortly thereafter. A hospital spokesman declined to comment on her condition.

More parking planned

Fair board directors will tighten security

The County Sheriffs will beef up their carnival and main gate patrol and the County Fair Association will put in 40 acres more of parking before fair time next summer.

The Fair Association board will also consider shutting down the carnival by 12 midnight on Fridays and Saturdays.

These were the major points that came out of a meeting between Fair directors, administration and representatives of the Sheriff's Department, California Highway Patrol, Pleasanton Police and Fire, and Caltrans Friday at the Fairgrounds.

Fairgrounds manager Lee Hall initally suggested setting up a command post in the carnival area.

Capt. Hal Walker, speaking for the Sheriff's Dept., said he recommends three deputies be on duty during the day (during the course of the Fair) and three deputies and a Sergeant at night and on weekends.

Previously, the Sheriff's office has had two men on duty from noon to 6 p.m. and two from 6 to 12 midnight. On weekends, two were on duty from noon to 6 and two deputies and a Sergeant at night.

Hall said Lloyd Hilligoss, owner of Foley and Burke Shows, had kept the carnival running past midnight on Fridays and Saturdays All present agreed that problems mounted after 10 at night, when the rest of the Fairgrounds is shutting down for the day.

Walker commented that his men had encountered fewer problems in the parking lots during the 1975 fair with only two cars being lost.

"If the carnival area is moved, though, I would recommend beefing up the patrol inside the carnival," Walker said.

Both Walker and Hall agreed additional security was needed at the main gate and at Gate C. Hall felt a deputy was needed to man both gates from 8 p.m. to midnight during the fair run.

Dave Freeman of the Pleasanton Police Department said fencing of the parking lot (along Pleasanton Avenue) is a great improvement.

Traffic flow along Hopyard Road and the department's problems in routing it through Fair and Division Streets was also discussed. Freeman also felt their was a problem in pedestrians trying to get across Pleasanton Avenue between the main gate and the parking lot, especially when the races break and on Saturdays and Sundays.

Hall countered that the problem might be alleviated when the drop-off area is completed.

Fire department representatives said a minimum of three men were on duty 14 hours daily during the Fair.

Several present praised the availability of the resuscitator.

CHP representatives said parking on Bernal Avenue was not a problem this year, adding that permanent traffic signs proved quite helpful. They also suggested that an exit gate be considered west of Gate 7.

Hall said the Fair plans on extending the Gate 7 parking area all the way over to the Arroyo. This would amount to 40 additional acres at 300 cars per acre.

It was also agreed the stall time, on the roadway going intoGate 7, was greatly improved over 1974. Hall said a survey showed that waiting time during normal hours was reduced from an average 8 minutes to 2 minutes. Peak hour average time was reduced from 15 to 4 minutes.

Director Bill Gale claimed one reason for the wait at Gate 7, which backs up traffic along Bernal and sometimes on Highway 680, is caused by persons deciding whether to take regular ($1) or preferred ($2) parking space.

CHP representatives recommended that temporary barriers be placed along Bernal up to Pleasanton Avenue to alleviate the "cutting over."

Police nab youths in theft

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLEY — A 17-year-old lad and his two companions have been arrested for investigation of grand theft and possessing stolen property from Livermore, sheriff's deputies said.

The boy is also being held for investigation of possessing false identifacation papers and attempting to pose as an adult while being booked at the county jail in Martinez.

The trio was arrested early Friday morning in Oakley about six hours after Livermore police broad-cast the theft of a sleeping back with miscellaneous items and over $600 cash, deputies said.

Deputies said they spotted the trio parked in front of an Oakley market, recognized the car, and searched it.

The youth gave his birthdate as September 1953, but also said he was 17. Deputies sent him to juvenile hall after finding military papers and other documents showing he was born in 1957. Before he was transferred, the youth was searched and found to have $605 in cash, deputies said.

Murray trustees will scan Pleasanton redevelopment plan

DUBLIN — The Pleasanton Redevelopment Project, Newsroom VI and format for presentationr to the board top a rather brief agenda scheduled for Murray School District trustees Monday night.

The board will convene at Dublin Elementary School, 7997 Vomac Rd., Dublin.

Background on the Redevelopment Project will be provided by Pleasanton Mayor Ed Kinney and City Manager Bill Edgar.

Newsroom VI is an educational project which the district hopes will teach youngsters about the medium of television and dissemination of news.

Students in grade six produce a weekly television news program, styled after a regular adult newscast, in which they broadcast the latest news to their community. The show is performed entirely by sixth graders from the Murray district.

Each Friday morning a designated class is transported to the G.E. Cablevision Studio in Walnut Creek to tape a Newsroom VI program. The program is then aired the following day at 9 a.m. on KEMO TV, Channel 20, San Francisco.

The Newsroom format is designed to give every student a job onthe show. Participants will do the jobs of a national news editor, entertainment editor, sports editor, and school news editor. A general announcer, two announcers to do commercials and a "Clock Jester" will also take part. The latter is a gimmick to help hold audience attention.

The board will also hear a summer school report, student council report, pass on first reading of community relations policy and accept a donation of $137.39 from the Fredericksen Parent Faculty Club's library fund for purchase of a display case.

SRV school slates 'The People Move'

SAN RAMON — "The People Move" will be presented at Country Club School Tuesday, Oct. 28 at 8 p.m.

The show features a multi-talented performer who sings and amazes the children (and parents) with special magic tricks, audience participation, fun and comedy.

Many unusual effects are used to add to the pace of the production. Most of the program is accompanied by taped backgrounds recently recorded in Hollywood. Music, original tunes, thought-provoking stories and other surprises are just a part of the variety provided by this show.

During the past few years, "The People Mover" has been performed for more than one-half million students all across the nation and has made two tours to Australia.

The new show is entitled "Happy Birthday to Us" and is centered around the Bicentennial Celebration.

Tickets for the performance are available at Country Club School.

Taping "The Peach Gang"

The sixth grade classes of David Young and Jean Luther presented two plays this past week dealing with different times and events in the American Bicentennial period. Above, eighth grade teacher Larry Valley focuses video tape camera on a scene "The Peach Gang." Approximately 60 sixth graders presented the play and "The Red Badge of Courage" for fellow students and, on Thursday night, for parents. The video tape of the two plays will be made available to classes throughout the district as a learning tool. (Times Photo)

Youth ranch offers community a piece of the dream

By REINA WHITNEY

Like Martin Luther King Jr., Ruth and Boyd Shattuck, co-founders of Buenas Vidas Ranch, have a "dream."

Driven by the same divine inspiration that motivated the life of the Reverend King, this Livermore couple quite simply just wants to "do something" for the disturbed child.

When the old Tuberculosis Sanatorium at the end of Arroyo Road in Livermore was in danger of being destroyed by Alameda County, and was literally "up for grabs' to whomever could come up with a good idea for its use the Shattucks felt (and still do), that they had the answer.

They had already proven their dedication to their chosen life's work. They rented a ranch on Greenville Road in Livermore where they could open their doors to disturbed children from all over the Bay Area.

The rooms are already overflowing where sometimes nine to twelve youngsters are "visiting" a family that already has five children.

The children that come to Ruth and Boyd are referred by schools, welfare agencies and churches. Although most of the youngsters borderline on serious problems, sometimes all they need is to get away from home for a few days. Sometimes it's the parents themselves that call for help.

Although Ruth has no professional training herself, you can sense that a confused child would have here someone who cares — someone to relax with. She seems to have that affinity for creating trust.

A good-looking outdoors type, with long auburn hair, clear eyes and a ready smile. Her slim figure fits comfortably into tight jeans and cowboy boots. You know that she could go out and teach a kid to fix a fence and saddle a horse.

She and her husband, and a few overly generous, overworked volunteers had to muster all the "handy man" talents they have to get the sanitorium in shape for move-in. The work has been slow and many times discouraging.

Unless you saw it before they started, you couldn't appreciate all they have accomplished. Volunteers from the local Jaycees, the Asbury Methodist and First Presbyterian Churches in Hayward, Dublin's Women's Club, Juniors and Juniorettes, Boy Scout Troop 139 and the Federal Youth Authority have all lent a hand in moving mountains of debris.

There wasn't a window that wasn't broken or a toilet fixture that wasn't smashed. Long-unused, deteriorated furniture and fifteen years of crud had to be cleaned out.

It took three months to get Building No. 1 (a former physician's residence) ready for the "family" to move in. All the work had to be done by hand — even sanding the floors because there was no electricity. Water had to be hauled in until the well was put into operating condition.

The Shattucks now would like to offer one half of the sanitorium property back to the community.

One building has been selected as a future cultural arts center for the city of Livermore. Buenas Vidas backers have even hired, at their own expense, Architect Charles Hall Page to draw up a set of feasible plans for the former Sanitorium Residence Hall building earmarked for this purpose.

The Boy Scouts and 4-H groups have shown an interest in other areas. Other organizations are welcome to come out and look over the facilities for possible use.

The Shattucks are serious about their dream. But they could use a little more help from a few more friends. Sally Bystroff at 447-0833 and Mickie Coggins at 447-2888 are willing to take phone calls of offers and pick up badly needed materials.

The most badly needed item is "hard operating cash" says Mr. Coggins. Materials would include all types of building materials, from roofing to lumber, nails, fixtures, paint etc.

All types of park and recreation equipment could be used as well as fire equipment, doors, windows, floor coverings from tiles to carpets. Drapes, blankets, plumbing supplies, tools of all kinds, ladders, paneling, sheet rock and garden tools.

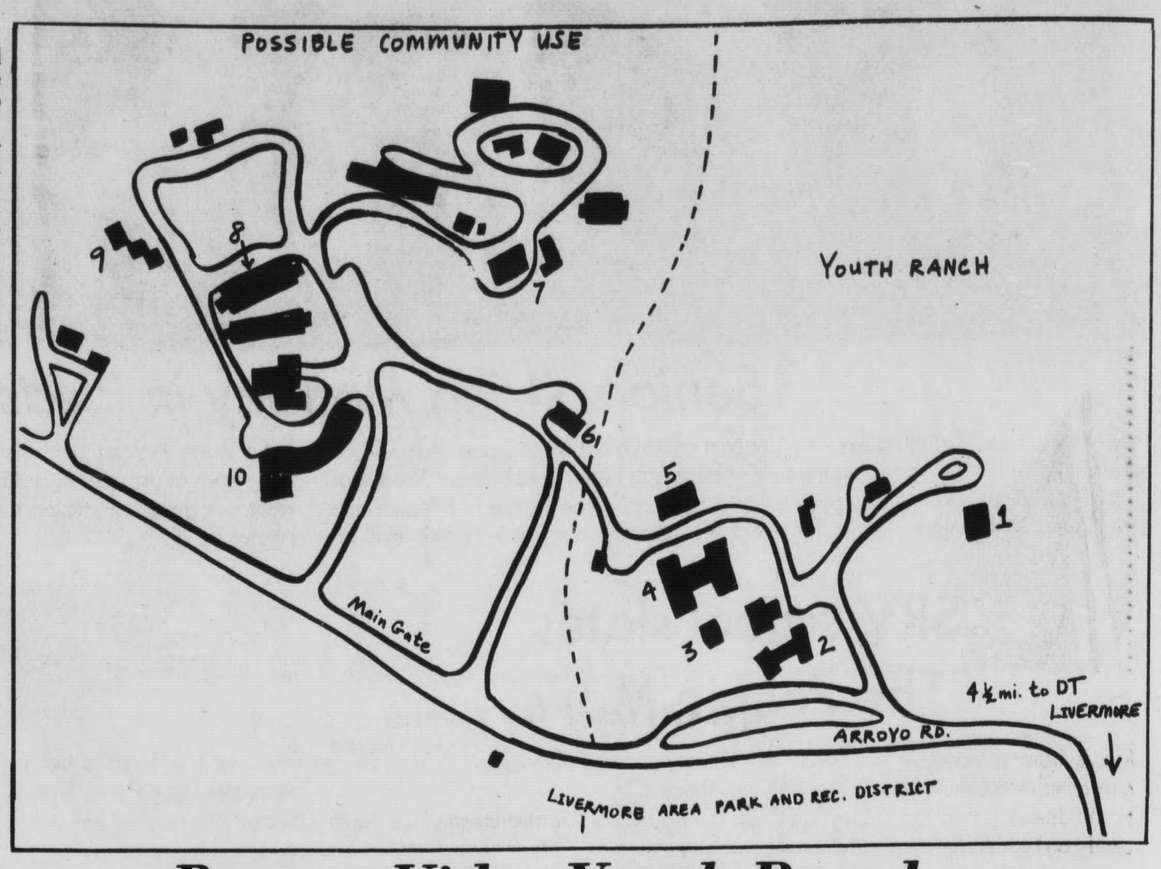
Some of the bigger items would include compressors, generators, water heaters, a bus, a pick-up truck, station wagons, and even boats and trailers. Working television would also be appreciated.

But most of all they need help from volunteer laborers. "Age is no barrier," says Coggins.

And the area is beautiful. Church teen groups have a wonderful time working outdoors at the ranch for a day.

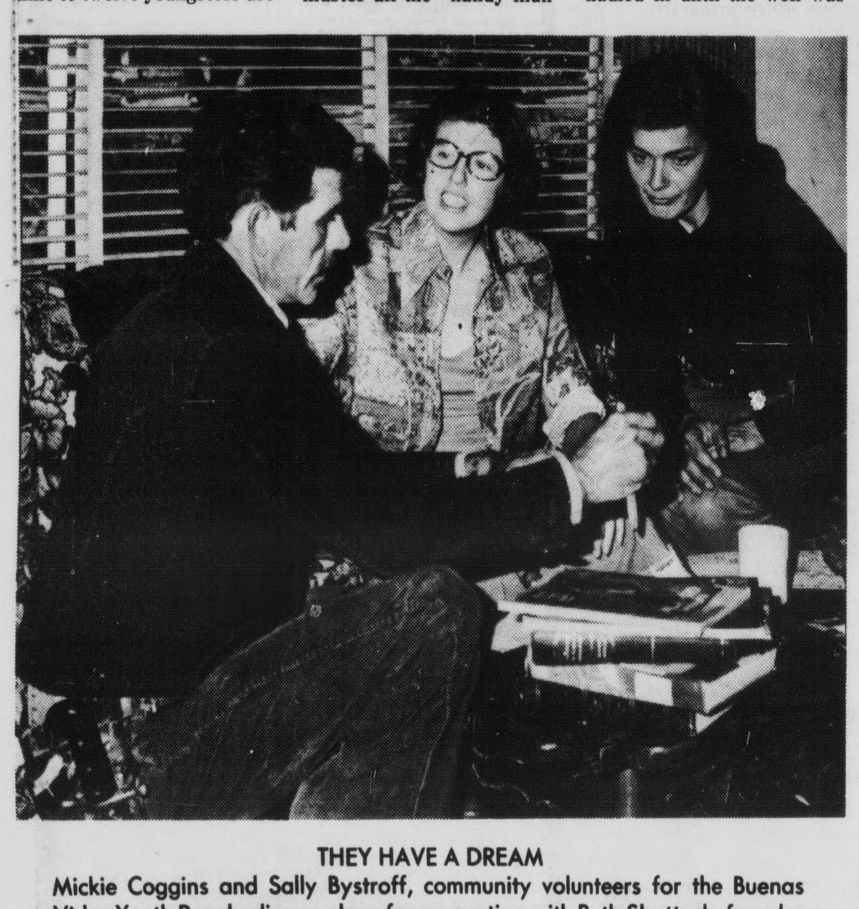
There is a slide presentation available to organizations wanting to know more about this ambitious project. For speaker arrangements call Mrs. Shattuck at 455-1179 or Mrs. Bystroff at 447-0833.

Monetary donations may be mailed directly to Buenas Vidas Ranch, 5301 Arroyo Road, Livermore 94550.



Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch

The 89 acres and 30 structures of the Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch (formerly the Alameda County Tuberculosis Sanitorium) are located four and a half miles south of downtown Livermore off Arroyo Road. The area to the right of the dotted line on the map is the area of major concern for volunteers organizing the youth ranch. The area indicated on the map to the left, with its complex of buildings is offered for community use. Buildings are identified by number: 1. The home soon to be occupied by residents of of the youth ranch. 2. Building planned for use in summer programs for youth at the ranch. 3. Old schoolhouse to be converted into a recreation room. 4. Fourteen-bedroom structure projected as a ranch dormitory. 5. Future counseling offices. 7. Home for caretaker in residence. 8. Building earmarked as a possible site for a cultural arts center for Livermore. 9. Utilities. 10. Possible 4-H building.



THEY HAVE A DREAM

Mickie Coggins and Sally Bystroff, community volunteers for the Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch, discuss plans for renovation with Ruth Shattuck, founder and director of the youth ranch.

Rescued in time

Morris Ribier is aided by two Tri-City Ambulance attendants after a seizure in the Pleasant Plaza shopping center Wednesday morning. Ribier was listed in satisfactory condition at Valley Memorial Hospital, although doctors were unable to determine the exact nature of the siezure. Originally, it was though Ribier had suffered a heart attack but tests did not supply a clearcut answer. Ribier was stricken about 10:25 a.m. and help was on the scene five minutes later.

Contra Costa County is well-off, census shows

According to a recent special census, Contra Costa County is young, well-off and highly-educated.

The average age of county residents is 30 (up from 28 in 1970), the median income is $15,026 and the average resident has attended one year of college.

Perhaps the most dramatic shift occured in the rate of growth — from 1970 to 1975 Planning Director Anthony Dehaesus estimated the growth rate at 1 per cent a year.

In the previous decade, the growth rate had been three times that.

The total population went up to 522,829, up from 555,805 in 1970 and population actually dropped in Richmond, El Cerrito and San Pablo.

, Concord, the largest city in the county, experienced an 11.2 per cent jump in population over the last five years, hitting the 94,000 mark.

San Ramon was estimated at 12,749 in 1975, which may reveal a key miscount by Contra Costa County officials. The 1970 figure was merely 4,884, and it is clear the population did not jump 8,000 in five years.

The report blames the low birth rate in recent years for the rise in average age of county residents and the percentage of children has dropped from 19 per cent to 15 per cent.

Only 3 per cent of the county's housing was judged to be below standard and 4 per cent of the single family homes were vacant. Apartments and condominiums had a 10 per cent vacancy rate.

The unemployment rate is only 5.3 per cent in the county, though Dehaesus cautions that that figure may be low due to unwillingness of respondents to admit to unemployment.

Only 6.3 per cent of the county's population is black and other minorities comprise only 3.5 per cent of the total population.

However, the county estimates the Spanish/Mexican population at somewhere near 10 per cent and those of direct Latin American origin at 3.3 per cent.

Rainout keeps Red Sox's hopes alive

BOSTON (AP) — An old fashioned Northeaster blew through Boston Saturday, postponing the sixth game of the World Series between the Boston Red Sox and the Cincinnati Reds but leaving each team's pitching plans unchanged — at least for the moment.

Manager Sparky Anderson, whose Reds lead the Series 3-2 and need just one more victory to nail down their first World Series victory since 1940, said Jack Billingham would still start Game 6 if it is played Sunday. And Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson is sticking with left-hander Bill Lee Sunday, provided the rain stops and the soaked Fenway Park field dries enough to permit a game.

The weather forecast provided some hope that a game could be played Sunday. It called for considerable cloudiness with a 20 per cent chance of light and widely scattered showers.

If rain forces postponement of Sunday's game, Johnson said he would change plans and use Luis Tiant in Game 6, then Lee in the seventh game if the Series goes that far. Tiant owns both Boston victories in this Series and would be pitching with four days of rest if he goes Monday.

Anderson plans to stay with Billingham for Sunday and Gary Nolan for seventh game duty if that is needed Monday. That is the same rotation the Reds brought to Boston. But another day of rain could change it. Billingham would still start Monday, but if the Series goes until Tuesday, Don Gullett would be Anderson's pitcher.

"Tuesday would be Don's fifth day and that's when he pitches," said Anderson.

As the ace of the Reds' staff, Gullett is the man Sparky thinks can lock up the Series. The flame-throwing left-hander limted Boston to two hits until the ninth inning in winning Thursday night's game. But the Reds would like to finish the Red Sox off before Gullett's turn comes up again.

Saturday's rainout was the first in a World Series since 1972 when Cincinnati lost to Oakland. The Reds lost that Series in seven games.

Glare is one of the things that can affect ball games when they are played in the daytime. But there was a possibility that if this Series stretches into Monday, the Reds and Red Sox would be working under the lights at Fenway Park.

The National Broadcasting Company has requested that any Monday game be played at night. That would put baseball on a collision course with the American Broadcasting Company's coverage of Monday night's National Football League game between the Buffalo Bills and New York Giants.

At issue is the larger audience available for viewing night games and subsequently the higher rates charged for commercial time in that period. Another problem might be baseball's future relations with ABC, which recently signed a lucrative contract calling for coverage of Monday night games, the All-Star Game and league playoffs beginning next year. NBC retains Saturday games and the World Series.

A spokesman for baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said no decision would be made on the Monday starting time until late Sunday.

Matadors edge spirited Dublin

In a game that could easily have been taken for the socs and greasers rumbling in the back alleys of a remote Southwestern city, the Granada Matadors pounded a 14-8 win out of host Dublin High School Friday night.

Less than 10 per cent of the game's plays were passes, six Gael players were shaken up and one Matador was thrown out of the game; thus the battle zone atmosphere.

Granada's offense was altered drastically midway through the first quarter when running back Vance Rushing was ejected for allegedly slugging Dublin end Harvey Trump. Rushing thought his expulsion was unjustified.

"I went to block him and I had my hands down low," he recalled, "but they said I punched him."

Matador coach Don Couch was also far from satisfied with the officials, who tagged his club with 115 yards in penalties while assessing Dublin a hefty 94 yards.

"Something funny was going on out there," Couch said between puffs of a post.game cigarette, "But we deserved to win."

One of the primary reasons for the Granada victory was the ballcarrying of senior Steve Jaeger, who took almost sole responsibility for the Mat offense after the untimely loss of Rushing.

Jaeger carried an exhausting 25 times and totaled 132 yards, an average gain of 5.3. Despite representing half of Granada's plays from scrimmage, Jaeger denied any sense of mission.

"I didn't feel any extra pressure," he said amidst the swarm of Granada celebrants who mobbed the team at the final gun. "The only problem I had was that my calves kept cramping."

The first touchdown was set up by the Granada punt team. After advancing the ball to the 50 the Mats kicked, Jarryl Hudson booming a 49-yarder that was downed by Don Smith at the Dublin one. The Gaels failed to make a first down and Granada took over at the Dublin 35 after a return punt. Two plays later they were in the end zone.

Quarterback John Walden first hit tight end Rick Bosch with a 19-yard pass, then rolled 16 yards around right end for the score with 6:31 remaining in the half. Rich Malia, as he would on the other Mat TD, kicked the extra point.

On the following Dublin possession, however, the Gaels took the lead. Faced with a second and 12 situation on the Mat 38, QB Sean Mays went to the air for only the second time and lobbed a soft, but accurate scoring strike to Bob Jarrell, who got into the endzone just ahead of a tackle by Malia.

The score came with 2:00 left in the half.

Granada's winning TD capped a 55-yard, 10-play drive during which Jaeger picked up 34 yards rushing, including the sixer on a one-yard plunge with just over seven minutes gone in the third quarter.

The most nerve-wracking portion of the game was still yet to come.

In the last period, the Gaels launched a time-consuming 64-yard, 17-play drive that climaxed in disaster at the Mat 24 when a Mays lateral to Jon Batchelor hit the grass and was recovered by Granada tackle Ron Freeman, who also had seven tackles and eight assists.

Dublin back Jim Boulware, who finished with a superb 106 yards for the game, displayed no small amount of guts on the heart-breaking march, carrying nine times for 58 yards.

The Gaels got still another chance after a shanked punt gave them the ball at the Mat 38 with under two minutes to play. But a leaping interception by sophomore Steve Robison exploded the emotions of both sides and iced the key EBAL opener for Granada.

Robison, the back-up Mat quarterback, saw little offensive action due to an increasing ability by Walden to read defenses while running the option. John finished with 58 yards rushing on 10 carries to lead Granada in yards-per-carry.

Livermore defense awesome as Pokes trounce MV, 21-0

While the dudes and their machines had a homecoming burning rubber near Livermores' First Street Friday night, the Livermore Cowboys were having a party of their own as they rolled to an easy 21-0 victory over Monte Vista in an opening game of the East Bay Athletic League season.

Monte Vista, predicted to be one of the EBAL's top defensive teams this year, surrendered over 230 yards total offense to the Cowboys. 190 of the Cowboys' yardage came on a potent ground attack.

On the other side, the Mustangs were able to pick up just 36 yards' and 62 via the air route.

A weary Ron Berg, head coach at Livermore, mentioned, "We played pretty good. At times we were a little sloppy.

"We started out great in the first half, but were inconsistent at times.

Leading the way for the Cowboys, a club with a ground eating attack utilizing a fast striking pro and eye set backfield, were Vince Farfan and the sturdy Rich Palmer.

Both lads took five at intermission to kiss Livermore's homecoming queen.

Farfan, who carried the pigskin only once in the second half, rambled for 70 yards on 12 first half carries.

Palmer, meanwhile, plunged in for one score besides throwing for another and rushing for 55 yards. Rich a very versatile quarterback, contributed to the Livermore drives.

"Rich's performance tonight was good," remarked Berg. "He executed a fine game for us and read the plays so well." Livermore's offensive line, deceptive in appearance but awesome on the turf, opened gapping holes for such workhouses as Pat Powles, Rich Lawson, Farfan and Palmer.

Berg continued, "The kids just wanted it more than they (Monte Vista) did. We had to have it and homecoming was a great inspiration."

Following the opening kickoff, (Which Farfan returned from his own 13 to the Livermore 43) the hosts drove 57 yards in 11 plays before Palmer on a third and 10 (goal to go) hit big tight end Bob Tarte at the Tarte scoring uncontested.

On the next series Livermore marched 76 yards in 13 plays. Powles scoring from five yards out. During that drive, Palmer engineered an almost flawless march. His colleagues, converted on two crucial third down plays.

Monte Vista could never generate any type of offensive momentum throughout the game. Three downs and a boot was more or less the story.

Livermore scored its final touchdown when Palmer bulled over from a yard out early in the fourth quarter of play. The score was set up by Monte Vista's Greg Goodman who underthrew intended receiver Dave Lair. Dennis Martinez picked it off and returned the pigskin 29 yards to the Mustang five.

Pete Howard made good on all three conversions. Goodman, in his second season as Monte Vista's quarterback, completed six of 17 passes for 62 yards. Berg reflected, "We haven't had that good of a pass defense against their type offense. Monte Vista used a triple option). It was a good test."

Goodman never had time to set up. He was sacked five times and was forced to run out of the pocket being buried sooner or later by a horde of linemen.

Heading toward his clubs' bathhouse, Berg added, "We still have a lot to learn yet. We never gave up in those first three games and our club offensively is now starting to jell.

"We're not what you can call rookies anymore."

Goodison standout in Amador victory

A healthy Mike Goodison and a hard-hitting defense were the key as Amador's Dons opened their East Bay Athletic League season on a winning note with a thrilling 14-12 victory over host San Ramon Friday night.

Goodison, one of the best backs in the EBAL last season, has been held down this year by mononucleosis. However, last night he was back in top form as he scored on a 34-yard pass from Don quarterback John Sevo.

The defense shut off San Ramon's passing attack and generally contained the Wolves' vaunted running back Mike Bowles.

Bowles gained 103 yards in 10 carries but 59 of them came on a touchdown burst in the opening period to give San Ramon a brief 6-0 lead.

Wolf starting quarterback Steve Ellis was unable to complete a pass and his replacement, Guy Houston, completed three passes for 66 yards. These came in the second half, however, as the Wolves were playing catch-up.

Goodison's burst came in the second quarter. His touchdown was set up when Sevo threw a 19-yard pass to split end John Connolly. Three straight passes netted nothing for the Dons but Sevo hit the charm with his bomb to Goodison on fourth down. Sevo booted the ball between the uprights for the conversion and Amador took a 7-6 victory into the locker room at halftime.

Midway through the third quarter, Amador struck again when running back Ron Worley drove in for the score from the two-yard line.

Worley's plunge culiminated a 51-yard drive in nine plays. Sevo made the conversion and Amador took a seemly secure 14-6 lead.

However, the Wolves were not out yet. San Ramon came back on the next series of plays. With Houston at the helm, the Wolves drove 63 yards in six plays with John Fink scoring from the one. Bowles broke lose for runs of 17 and 13 yards to spark the Wolf drive.

However, San Ramon's fate was sealed on the extra point attempt as running back Paul Fisch was stopped short of the goal line on a end sweep.

The Wolves had one more gasp left in them, however and they drove 62 yards to the Don one before Houston fumbled the center snap.

San Ramon tried one more time to score with less than a minute left in the contest but Amador's Randy Talarico intercepted a desperation pass by Houston and Amador had its first league victory and second over-all win of the season.

Don coach Fred Wood exclaimed after the game amid shouts of joy by the Amador players and fans, that "We moved well on the ground, but our defense did a real fine job too. On Bowles' touchdown run, two of our players nearly had him but collided with each other." Although the Don win was considered an upset by most observers, the Dons figured to be tough as they have their entire backfield back from last season.

San Ramon outgained Amador, 242 to 215 in total offense but much of the Wolf yardage was picked up on Bowles' run. Sevo only hit three of eight passes for 58 yards but ran for 47 and directed the team well. Mike Mays led the Don ballcarriers with 55 yards. Goodison carried the ball eight times for 21 yards.

Raider defense keeps Hendricks on sidelines

OAKLAND — The Oakland Raiders have injuries at several key positions but the linebacker corps is so healthy that All-Pro Ted Hendricks still is a second stringer.

"I didn't come here to sit on the bench," Hendricks said Thursday. "If I'd known this would happen, I probably would have gone somewhere else. I want to play."

The outside linebacker signed with the Raiders this summer after becoming a free agent and it appeared late in the exhibition season that he would take over one of the starting spots. But through four games of the National Football League season, he's seen just spot duty as a replacement for Phil Villapiano or Gerald Irons.

"It was very humiliating to me going into the Kansas City game in the fourth quarter. Here I am an All-Pro and I'm going in as a second stringer with the score 35-3," he said, looking back at Sunday's 42-10 loss to the Chiefs.

Hendricks was an All-Pro last season with the Green Bay Packers. He began his NFL career with the Baltimore Colts.

A pulled hamstring muscle late in the summer slowed Hendricks down, but he says he's fully recovered now and ready to play fulltime. He talked to Coach John Madden early this week and said he was told "it wasn't the right time."

California loses

After building up a 14-0 lead the California Grizzlies fell to Robert Louis Stevenson, 15-14 Friday night at Monte Vista's stadium.

Stevenson's big plays proved to be the downfall of the young Grizzlies. Phil Wilhite broke lose for a 80-yard run in the second quarter to open the winners' scoring. Reamy Goodwin added a 14-yard field goal in the same quarter to closethe California margin to 14-9 at the half.

Steve Rusconi put the winning points on the board with a 70-yard sput in the third period.

California scored its first touchdown on a two-yardplunge by Tracy Nodlinski in the first period. QuarterbackTom Woodmansee added the second California touchdown on a one-yard plunge in the second quarter.

California is now 1-5 for the non-league season.

Muncie, Walker run over Oregon State

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) —Chuck Muncie ran for three touchdowns and threw a 47-yard scoring pass to Wesley Walker to lead the California Bears to a 51-24 Pacific-8 Conference football victory over Oregon State Saturday.

It was California's fourth straight victory and the most points the Bears, 4-2, have scored this season. For the Beavers, it was the sixth straight loss.

Muncie took a pitchout and passed to Walker to get Cal in front to stay at 10-7 late in the first quarter. Walker shook free of two tacklers and ran the last 14 yards. It was Muncie's second pass of the season — he completed a 50-yarder in a previous game.

The 6-foot-3 Uniontown, Pa., senior, who gained 207 yards last week in Cal's 34-7 victory over Oregon had rushed for 106 yards in 13 carries by halftime, including touchdown runs of 5, 16 and 15 yards.

Muncie left the game midway in the third quarter with 149 yards gained on 18 carries, giving him 794 yards for six games and an average of 6.4 yards a rush.

His first touchdown, on a five-yard run, came after Cal defensive end Burl Toler recovered a fumble by Oregon State's Larry Dozier on a pitchout at the Beavers' 22.

Muncie shook off several tacklers to go 16 yards for his second score, capping a 10-play, 68-yard Cal drive. On his third touchdown run he outran defenders into the end zone from the 15 with 2:54 left in the half.

Oregon State got two of its touchdowns in the last quarter against Cal second-stringers.

After Cal's Jim Breech had started the scoring with a 34-yard field goal, the Beavers came back to go ahead 7-3. The ensuing kickoff was an onside attempt that fizzled, and Oregon State marched 53 yards to score on a three-yard pass from Kyle Grosshart to Lee Overton.

Early in the second quarter, the Beavers were still in the game when Keith Nelson booted a 31-yard field goal to cut the Cal lead to 17-10. But then came two Muncie touchdowns to start the rout.

The Bears led 30-10 at halftime, and already had netted 310 yards on offense. Cal, the nation's 10th-ranked major college team offensively, finished with a 533-yard total to Oregon State's 342 yards.

The Bears put reserves in early in the second half, but their lead mounted. Cal scored on three of the first four times it had the ball in the third quarter.

Third-string fullback John Dixon ran six yards for the first score after intermission. Then Walker went around the right side on a double hand-off for 25 yards, outrunning Beaver defenders into the end zone.

That put Cal ahead 44-10 at 9:01 of the third period. Little more than a minute later, an eight-yard punt that went out of bounds on Oregon State's 35 enabled Cal to score its final touchdown. This one came on a 32-yard run by reserve Vern Smith.

US netters win

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The United States clinched the second round of the 1976 American Zone Davis Cup competition Saturday when Dick Stockton and Erik van Dillen thrashed Venezuelans Humphrey Hose and Jorge Andrew 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

The Americans needed only 68 minutes for their doubles triumph and an unbeatable 3-0 lead over Venezuela in the best-of-five tennis series.

Jimmy Connors and Roscoe Tanner gave the United States a 2-0 lead in singles matches on Friday. Two more singles matches, now meaningless, are scheduled for Sunday.

With Stockton serving the opening game, he and van Dillen needed less than three minutes for a love game which set the tone for the American's torrid afternoon before some 6,200 fans.

Cards defeat Huskies

(AP) — Rich Waters scored on a 52-yard pass interception with 24 seconds left and Stanford survived two touchdowns on blocked punts to hold off a frenzied Washington 24-21 Saturday in a Pac-8 conference football thriller.

Waters' interception came with Stanford ahead 17-14 and the Huskies seemingly smelling the possible upset.

Washington turned right around and scored a touchdown with two seconds left when Waters fumbled another interception.

Gordy Bronson, the intended receiver picked up the ball on the two and fell into the end zone for the score.

The Cardinals, 1-1, in conference play, seemed firmly in command as they built a 17-0 lead late in the third period.

Contra Costa 'respectfully' rejects San Quentin

The Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors respectfully declined Marin County's offer to give San Quentin to Contra Costa at the board's Tuesday night meeting.

Supervisor Ed Linscheid commented "It's not often that an adjacent county is willing to share such benefits. We will, however, accept a cash settlement instead of land."

In news of a more immediate interest to CCC residents, the board will most likely adopt an ordinance increasing dog license fees from $4 to $6 on Oct. 21. The cost for spayed dogs will jump from $2 to $3.

The curfew for minors was also amended to allow youngsters who are going to and from work or who are attending a meeting, dance or party at a church, school or youth club to be on the road.

The board also approved an agreement with the State Department of Education which provides $386,570 in state and federal funds, through June 1976, for child care programs operated by the county's social service department.

The services to low income families, including persons in employment and training programs, require no local funds.

The supervisors agreed to ask county legislators to introduce legislation which would permit the state to relinquish, without cost, the rights of way to state routes 93 and 77.

The state has decided not to build the two expressways in the Lafayette and Moraga areas and the county is looking into ways of financing their construction itself.

The board also passed a resolution urging county residents to become familiar with proposals on nuclear energy that will appear on the 1976 ballots.

Granada area spurs drive on vandalism

LIVERMORE — Homeowners in the vicinity of Granada High School — who of late have taken to writing letters to the editor and contacting school district officials about litter and vandalism associated with the school — aren't alone in their concern.

The Student Legislature also is intent on solving the problems.

"They feel there's too much litter and so do we," said Student Body President James Cross on behalf of the Legislature which has called a special meeting Thursday in the Little Theatre from 11:40 a.m. to 1 p.m. with area homeowners to discuss the problem.

"How can we attack the problem unless we know how they see it," Cross asked by way of making a point. "We want to know their complaints, their ideas," he explained.

He also cautioned that the Legislature was limited in what changes it could affect.

"There's only so much we can do. We can't make guarantees and we're not a police force," he said referring to common complaints such as radios being too loud and swearing by the students.

On the other hand Cross emphasized the need for coordinated efforts by the students and community to combat problems that have come to be associated with the school, especially litter.

"We hope the people realize we're a new group of students. We believe in ourselves and our actions," he pointed out.

Cross noted that the school plans a clean-up day next week and such efforts have been made even before recent pressure from the community.

"We really started the second week in September. The Legislature started programs to establish basic goals and involve the community with the students to improve Granada's image.

"People have been down on Granada. They don't give it a chance. Without their support nothing can really be accomplished. It's a community problem," the student body president said.

The school already has held two clean-up days, efforts that resulted in a new, sparkling appearance — but only for a day or two.

Cross believes only a small select group of students is responsible for the vending machine and carry-out food wrappers that have become part of the campus appearance. He also noted that the campus is in much use with Chabot College classes in the evening and the recreation district's use of the tennis courts.

"But basically it's the students," he admitted.

Cross, however, took the blame one step further and pointed an accusing finger at parents.

"Students get their values and actions from their parents," he explained, "so you really can't say its the school's problem. You can't undo the things that are learned in the home. The school is not there to babysit," he contended.

But he also is not one to lose hope. The Legislature, he said, has been making anti-litter posters and contacting civic organizations for 55-gallon drums which can be used as trash cans and because of their size, cannot be carted away as easily and regularly as others now on campus.

"There's all kinds of angles you can look at on this," he said. Interested homeowners are invited to attend the student sponsored meeting Thursday afternoon as well as one Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the District Office, corner of Rincon Avenue and Las Positas Boulevard, with Granada and district administrators.

City critics learn 'the system works'

During the long process of public hearings which necessarily led up to the city council's ultimate decision on the Pleasanton Redevelopment Plan, some of those critics suggested that "You can't work with the council ... they never listen."

Any fair reading of the progress of that controversial program in the last few weeks would have to support the belief that public input does count, the city's leaders will respond. The system does really work.

From a wide-ranging, ambitious venture as first suggested by city staff, the redevelopment plan has been steadily whittled down to something that now appears to answer most of those earlier concerns. The residential areas have been largely removed, the sense of "downtown revitalization" has been strengthened, and the whole project brought into more reachable goals.

That is not to suggest that everyone is now satisfied, or even preclude the likelihood that still more changes will be sought. But the point is that the meaningful alterations already advanced have been warmly and even enthusiastically received by the city council. There is no reason to believe that this elected body won't continue to be that responsive, both during the final draft of that plan, and the on-going administration of that agency.

We won't know until Nov. 10 if indeed there is to be any Pleasanton Redevelopment Plan at all. But if there is, it will be a project that reflects the opinion of those most directly concerned, operated by an agency that gives every promise of abiding by the majority will.

Those who must always threaten to "recall the council" as their only response to any public issue are unhappy souls who rarely have faith in their town, its leadership or its people. The big victory of the past several weeks has not been a vindication for redevelopment — in whatever form — but rather a reaffirmation in the process that permits ideas to be advanced, debated, changed and even withdrawn, all within the full meaning of "responsible democratic government."

The system really works, and works best as long as people have the interest and the will to make it so.

Chamber helps

At one state stage in these many redevelopment deliberations — when it was apparent the city staff's initial proposal was not winning much favor — this newspaper wondered "if the Chamber of Commerce has the expertise" to provide any kind of meaningful alternative. Frankly, we were doubtful.

The chamber not only produced such a report, but it was accomplished in record time, with good statistical support and sound reasoning. It is, in the words of one councilman, "a magnificent effort."

Not everyone will agree with the chamber's reasoning. If those who "have a better idea" for revitalization of the city's core area advance that plan with the diligence applied by the chamber, then Pleasanton might really start getting somewhere.

The week in retrospect

Cruises & the media

Never let it be said the major news media (television, wire services and large city newspapers) let responsibility and common sense stand in the way of collecting what it considers news.

I agree with Councilman Don Miller of Livermore in his assessment of last week's "cruise."

The only exception being that I cannot go along with comments that valley newspapers should bear the MAJOR responsibility and pay the $1,800 in expense for police overtime.

But the news media must bear some responsibility.

The incident was initiated when a handful of students at Livermore High School allegedly distributed leaflets about town telling of a "cruise" to be held along First Street (a week ago Saturday night).

These leaflets and words of same supposedly were spread throughout the valley and, in some instances, gained some notice outside the valley.

The newspapers learned of the leaflets and the wording on same. So did the Livermore Police Department, as well as the school administration.

For the news media, at least, this was the crucial point in time.

One of the options open would have been to suppress the story entirely.

To have done so would have been wrong.

That brings it down to discretion on the part of those writing and editing the story on said event.

The story could have been "buried" on an inside page, bannered on an inside page, stuck in a corner on Page 1 or given a large size, multi-columned headline on that page. The event could have been mentioned just once or several times on Thursday, Friday and the day of the "cruise" (Saturday).

As it turned out, the event got BOTH bold Page 1 coverage and inside page coverage ... on both Thursday and Friday.

This writer happens to side with Miller, at least as we understand his view, that good judgment and responsibility were not shown by the news media.

It would be interesting to know how many persons went to the Livermore "cruise" as the result of newspaper and Radio KFRC stories and how many avoided the area because of it.

We have heard the remark that stories on the "cruise" helped to alert people to the event, that they could then determine what course of action to take. Another words, this comment was implying the stories had a totally positive thrust.

If that be so, then I have two questions to ask:

1) Did downtown Livermore merchants lose any business Saturday evening because of the cruise?

2) Did the event cause any undue hardships on any segments of the community aside from merchants?

I cannot give a decisive answer on the first as the merchants contacted along First Street were either employes who were'nt on duty the evening in question or closed up by 6 p.m.

The two that did respond, both liquor or bar-restaurant operations, felt the "cruise" had a very negative affect on sales. One manager said it was "real dead and sales were off $100 more than the normal Saturday night."

As to the second question, some hardships were obviously experienced. Police reportedly arrested 26 persons and cited 120 more.

For those who take advantage of shops, restaurants, bars or theaters on Saturday nights, I would have to think the "cruise" presented a problem of logistics if nothing else.

Obviously, the Livermore Police could do without such publicized events. And I believe the citizenry at-large is not interested in becoming the "cruise capital" of the Bay Area if only for one night.

As a result, the event and all similar ones cost the taxpayers of Livermore ... for added police protection of life and property.

I can't help but believe that leaflets or headlines in newspapers that state "bring your chicks, broads and booze" are at once appealing to certain segments of the community and demeaning to women young and old.

The combining of the words "broads" and "booze" in a headline will get different reactions from new media types. Some literally jump up and down in glee and congratulate the author of any such headline. Others will take the opposite tact, claiming it sounds too much like something out of a scandal sheet.

The usual reaction of most all the news media (including TV and wire services) to criticism is to wave the flag, once again espouse freedom of the press or attack the instigator of the critical comment.

I believe it's long past time that all segments of the media did a thorough self-analysis, one that will standup to the events and times of the present day.

Round the town

I see where the League of California Cities has scheduled my good friend Governor Jerr as lead-off speaker at that 77th Annual Conference in San Francisco. Jerr is set to anchor the Monday after-breakfast panel.

I sure hope the League has something else on that same program. Governor Jerr is not known for entertaining the third-cup-of-coffee crowd. A body would scarcely have time to set down the napkin and reach for a toothpick before Jerr is already signing off.

"I don't believe in wasting your time, OR MINE," he once advised a group of us newspaper people. He had already skipped our luncheon invite ... "I can't believe you really want to sit out there and watch me eat" ... and stopped by for a sort of post-luncheon press conference. After about 40 well-chosen words, Jerr was on his way again, knocking down other windmills.

The League will be in San Francisco all week. Heavy calendar of sessions every blessed day. The cities have problems, as you may have read. New York overdrawn at the bank. San Francisco unable to maintain its standard of athletic prowess at the junior high schools. Things are a mess.

The daily program for the League of California Cities captures this same urban mood. "The Unions and the Cities" ... "Federal Affairs" ... "Pollution as a Way of Life." It's all very heady stuff.

Vice President Rockefeller will be the key note speaker on Wednesday. His talk is scheduled right after Eric Severeid — the CBS good humor man — does his obituary on "The Health of Our Cities." Then comes Rocky. It will be like Bob Hope trying to liven up the audience after Brutus gives us his prognosis on Caesar. The CIA coming on for a few light remarks at the close of an SLA convention.

Maybe that's why the vice president's appearance on the program is followed by a (tentative). That gives him time to catch the Black Plague. Smash his car into somebody's skate board. Anything to avoid following Eric (The Knife) Severeid's talk on "The Health of Our Cities."

Governor Jerr's place on the Monday show-and-tell is also notated with a (tentative). That's to be expected. Jerr has become something of a speaker's celebrity, simply by not speaking at all. They had a recent gathering of all the Democratic presidential hopefuls, while back. The press coverage focused on one of them. GOVERNOR BROWN IS A NO SHOW, they screamed. Nobody remembers who actually appeared. We all know Jerr didn't. Great piece of public relations.

The League people could double check on Jerr's appearance right this moment. Post a look out on Interstate 80, about mid-way between Sacramento and San Francisco. See if a tall, skinny fella is making any progress on his skate board, on the shoulders of the freeway, heading west.

Jerr does not believe in airplanes "Too expensive." Doesn't even like cars "Too risky ... look what happened to What's-his-face." So Jerr walks. To his office. To those social engagements.

That's why he accepts so few speaking dates. It's not that he's anti social. Just that he runs out of time. You ever try to get from a Lions Club breakfast in Yreka to a Grape Pickers Hoedown in Delano ... in the same day ... on a skate board?

The emphasis at the 77th League session will be on the environmental questions, naturally. In the old days the city leaders used to sit around and talk about dumb things like zoning ... and taxes ... and industrial development. After each session they'd talk about sex and booze.

Now the panel sessions are loaded with items like "Petaluma on Review" ... "Growth Control Implications for Urban Areas" ... "Is There a Garbage Dump in Your Future?" Afterwards the panelists sit around and talk about polyunsaturated grape juice, and Betty Ford's article in Better Housekeeping.

It is not the League of California sessions of yore, and that's for darned sure. The times they are a-changing. The city leaders have to shape up, or ship out. Only no other country wants to take 'em.

Mayor Beame was supposed to close out the final session. His address (tentative) was entitled "A Funny Thing Happened to New York on the Subway to Yonkers." It was to be followed by an old Shirley Temple movie.

Now we understand Mayor Beame has cancelled out. His creditors won't approve the cross-country trip. Instead, the leader of this nation's largest city is sending a tape of his remarks. "HELP! I AM BEING HELD PRISONER IN THE FIRST TEAMSTERS TRUST BANK IN QUEENS ... This Is A Recording ... HELP! I AM BEING HELD PRISONER ...."

If he has Governor Jerr's luck, Mayor Beame will be the no-show who grabs all the headlines.

Assemblyman Mori reports. . .

Legislative committees

In accordance with the timetable of our two-year organization, the California Legislature is now in recess until January 5, but the work of the Assembly committees continues.

Each of the 20 Assembly legislative panels have begun to investigate problems and issues which will contribute to the debate in both houses of the Legislature in 1976.

I have already participated in a number of these interim committee hearings. Last week, as a member of the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation, I heard testimony regarding tax loopholes. We discussed possible remedies and the effects of attempting to close the loopholes. Topics of discussion at future hearings will include property taxes, problems connected with assessed valuation, and timber taxes.

I also attended a meeting of the Education Committee. The discussion included a very critical review of the evaluation procedures at state and local levels. Additional hearings have been scheduled to study issues such as declining enrollment, adult education, secondary education reform, and overall school financing.

Industrial safety procedures will be the topic of discussion at the meeting of the Labor Relations Committee. A subcommittee will meet here in the Livermore Valley to investigate labor relations difficulties at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

I have recently been assigned to three special committees which will conduct hearings during the interim recess. One session will be devoted to problems relating to bilingual education. Another will focus on Community Planning and Development. The third will hear testimony and determine what the state's role should be in assisting small to medium sized farms.

The Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee will conduct a symposium on the problem of low voter participation in elections and will study the regulation of unfair compaign practices.

The role of state government in the promotion of business, tourism and product development is being scrutinized by the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee. The panel also is evaluating the merits of creating an Office of State Ombudsman and a one-house Legislature.

Rent control, rural housing and community redevelopment are being studied by the Housing and Community Development Committee.

The Human Resources Committee is studying welfare fraud, child care, the problem of illegal aliens in California and unemployment among young people.

The quality of education in California law schools is among subjects of inquiry by the Assemby Judiciary Committee. Others include reforms of probate and administrative laws and legal rights relating to the use of solar energy.

The Assembly Local Government Committee is reviewing the California Environmental Quality Act and several problems relating to counties and municipalities.

Letters to the Times

Women at war

Editor, The Times:

The September issue of American Opinion Magazine quoted our congressman, Fortney H. Stark (9th District), as saying, "If, indeed, we reinstate the draft, it would be my view that women should be drafted . . . It would be only fair that my daughters stand the chance of being drafted along with my son."

I wrote to Rep. Stark concerning this quote and he has replied that, yes, this indeed is his position and, yes, he believes he represents the views of the voters in his district on this matter.

The Equal Rights Amendment, if ratified, would prevent treating women any differently from men. Combine this with a military draft for women and you have our daughters subject to armed combat — shooting and being shot at — the same as men. It is extremely dangerous to assume this wouldn't happen. We have some other pretty serious problems today because not enough citizens got concerned early enough.

If you do not agree with our congressman on this question, then he isn't representing you very well. You might write him and tell him so. Or better yet vote for someone else next year. Or both.

Student smoking

Editor, The Times:

In a very busy schedule of working with Girl Scouts, AAU swimmers, and in the schools with the Early Childhood Development program, I feel compelled to share my feelings about the topic of smoking in high schools currently being discussed locally.

I find it incomprehensible that, while health care facilities, businesses, eateries & stores are rapidly displaying more & more "please no smoking — out of consideration for others" signs, we are discussing allowing it in our schools.

It has been proven that an adult smoking in the home causes a health hazard to the children in that home. Coaches ask parents not to smoke in the car taking athletes to & from-practices & games. Doctors tell mothers definitely not to smoke around their babies.

And yet we're considering allowing smoking in our schools. Incredible. I do not care if people wish to smoke. That is their private decision. And it should be a private thing — away from other people whose health it could harm.

There are times when adults must say no to young people — for their own good. And the time is now.

Stoneridge speeders

Editor, The Times:

Muirwood Drive Speeders Beware!!

Ever think about running over a child? Think about it for a second and try and visualize how you would face the distraught parents of the child you just ran over! Muirwood Drive residents are going to report speeders, and careless driver's license numbers to the police department beginning immediately.

Manslaughter is a serious charge, and a child's death or permanent injury is a never forgotten memory! A petition is also being circulated throughout the Stoneridge area requesting the City of Pleasanton and Alameda County to remove the No Left Turn at the intersection of Foothill Rd. and Stoneridge Drive. Our concern is for the safety of You.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Golf is not exactly a way of life with my neighbor, Gloria Sorensen, but she plays regularly, belonging, I believe, to the San Ramon Women's golf club and living, as she does, directly adjacent to the 11th tee.

She also plays with some degree of consistency at the Veteran's Hospital in Livermore, engaging in a contest with one of the laddies confined there by physical disabilities suffered while serving in his country's armed forces.

The lady is not trying to find easy competition when she takes on a disabled or hospitalized veteran. She is an excellent golfer by anyone's standards and does not need any patsies.

The golf games at the Veteran's Hospital are part of her activities in behalf of the Jose Maria Amador Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Back in the days of yore the DAR was a ticklish subject in my young life.

My paternal grandmother was a staunch and active member of the organization and able to trace her background to a captain in the army which won independence from Great Britian for these United States.

My mother was a native of Australia by way of pure Scot parents, one of whom had traveled there to escape the fearful beatings adminstered by her father when she attended the wrong church in search of better music, the other sent there by his family so he could hide half a world away from the shame caused by his behavior in boudoirs while a captain in Queen Victoria's court.

Naturally, she was not eligible to belong to the DAR, a situation which, if view of the degree of incompatibility in which my mother and grandmother existed, made it an unmentionable organization while in her presence.

So while my grnadmother continued to attend meetings and sing the organization's praises, I was separated, if not alienated, from the DAR at an early age.

Gloria brought me back in touch with the organization and, with the help of Lois O'Conner, the Jose Maria Amador Chapter's publicity chairman, set me straight on some of the facts of life.

The DAR, an organization of women directly descended from persons who aided in establishing American independence, is not exactly easy to join but does engage in many worthwhile enterprises.

Worthwhile by this old man's standards anyway.

The ladies chief goal is to teach and promote good citizenship among youths, adults and those who immigrate to these Unites States.

Its progams promote appreciation of the past, patriotic service in the present and educational training for the future.

The DAR helps preserve historic shrines that keep alive the memory of men and women who won American Independence, encourages the study of American history and maintains relics and records of early America.

The organizaion owns and operates two schools in remote mountain areas of Alabama and South Carolina, where they are cut off from regular school systems, gives financial aid to six other schools and colleges, publishes a manual for citizenship to help foriegn born residents become citizens of the United States, sponsors Junior American Citizens Clubs for school children, provides scholarships for American Indians and conducts an annual Good Citizenship contest in Unites States High Schools.

The fledgling Jose Maria Amador Chapter of the DAR, with members in San Ramon, Dublin, Pleasanton and Livermore, will hold its first annual Good Citizenship essay contest this coming spring, depending, of course, on obtaining permission for such competition from the various valley high schools.

The organization in the valley is small for the moment. There are about 20 members with several more waiting for their credentials to clear.

Joining the DAR is not exactly easy. Members must be directly descended from someone who participated in attaining American independence and must be able to come up with credentials which solidly prove their claim.

There are other requirements for membership according to Mrs. O'Conner, but the descendant rule is of prime importance and the most difficult.

Fledgling members must pour over family bibles, roam through cemeteries, consult the national archives and pursue any available lead to prove their right to membership.

Once they join the DAR they are committed to devoting some portion of their life to improving things in these United States.

The Jose Maria Amador chapter, strapped for money and very young, the local group has functioned for just two years, has concentrated its efforts on the Veterans' Hospital.

Members collect magazines and take them to the hospital, bring things which they make with their hands to the veterans confined there and one member plays either checkers, chess or bridge with the veterans each week. Frankly I can't remember which.

Only once a year is there a social event held privately by the chapter during the installation of new officers.

Other meetings are open to the public.

With a natural interest in history, the local chapter has been trying to track down the grave of their namesake, one of the valley's earliest pioneers and have traced it to an unmarked site in Gilroy. The rest of the time they devote their efforts to promoting citizenship, helping those who need it, and providing good cheer and a little fun for the lonely men at the hospital with everything from home made pies to a game of golf.

For Sunday, Oct. 19, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your judgment is excellent today on things that affect you alone. If you try to extend your thinking to cover others, you'll get into a heap of trouble.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You tend to count on a little more than you have coming today. You'll be disappointed when you don't get all you hoped for.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't wear out your welcome if invited to a social gathering today. If you're one of the first to arrive, be sure to be one of the first to leave.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone you're going to rely on today won't be there when you need him. Count on the only one you can — yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A person you'll have a discussion with today feels as strongly about the subject as you do, only you'll be on opposite sides of the fence.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pressure will be brought to bear on you by a person who was reluctant to take "no" for an answer yesterday. Give him the same reply.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although you will solicit advice from others today, their answers won't really register. You'll do things as you first intended.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Pay particular attention to health matters today. Don't overexert yourself. Curl up with a good book or the TV.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may have trouble handling the children today, but not nearly as much as you'll have if you let some busybody really gum up the works.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You and your mate better decide early who's going to be in charge today. Your wigwam isn't large enough for two chiefs and no Indians.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep your ideas in perspective today. Though you may think in grandiose terms, you're missing a lot of small, necessary details.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be more protective than usual of your possessions today, for you may find someone taking a liking to something you're particularly fond of yourself.

Also planning to construct log cabin

Harvest Park class building wagon

If Craig Prouty's classroom at Harvest Park School resembles a staging area for an overland wagon train, be advised the class is just restoring a chuck wagon.

But they also have plans to build a log cabin for the Nature Park near the classroom.

Prouty and his seventh and eight graders are jumping into the Bicentennial celebration with both feet and hands.

A former ranch owner, Prouty stumbled upon the chuck wagon....or what was left of it....while gathering fire wood at the Buckeye Ranch in Lafayette. Prouty estimates the wagon as being about 120 years old.

The activity is all part of a Centennial '76 class Prouty is conducting this year.

Class activity resembles a five-ring circus with portions of the wagon being restored, girls making quilts and pillows and others, such as Teresa Bowers, compiling reports on colonial times and candlestick-making.

Prouty and the class' hopes of building a log cabin depend on getting surplus telephone polls from PG and E or railroad ties. If not, they'll have to build it of adobe.

The class has also setup a display in the front office on the Bicentennial.

In previous weeks, some of the girls in the class tried their hand at "frontier cooking", whipping-up tortillas and home-made ice cream.

When the wagon is completely restored, the class plans to enter it in a local parade, towed by a two-horse team, display it at the County Fair and then request permission to put it in the local historical museum.

Registration still open for Pleasanton classes

PLEASANTON — The Pleasanton Recreation Department is taking registration for the continuation of the following three classes.

Rocket technology process may aid in coal conversion

A technique used in rocket engines offers a promising new approach to coal conversion technology, the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) revealed.

ERDA awarded a $994,375 two-year contract to Rockwell International Corporation of Canog Park for development of a coal liquefaction process by direct hydrogenation using the Rocketdyne process.

The Rocketdyne process encompasses the mixing and conditioning of two streams of reactants — coal and hydrogen — almost instantaneously.

This type of mixing is utilized in liquid rocket engines for propellant injection and offers "a promising new approach to the conversion of coal" Dr. Phillip White said.

The conversion process forms light hydrocarbon liquids and gases while preventing subsequent breaking down of the larger, heavier and more complex hydrocarbon molecules into simpler and lighter molecules.

The project is divided into two parts — Phase I includes the cold-flow testing and related studies to provide sufficient information for a determination to continue with Phase II, the reactor testing.

NOBODY WANTED

OLD JED'S SADDLE
When Old Jed decided to leave the range and retire to raise earthworms, he went about the time-honored ritual of "willing" his property to his friends. For Hank, his trusty six-shooter; for Bill, his old mare Nellie; for Bart his saddlebags; for Little Jimmy his boots; and for his best friend Sam, his saddle. But nobody wanted Old Jed's gear. No sir, them boys just up and turned Old Jed down. Well, Jed didn't know what to do. Seemed like nobody wanted his saddle, or anything else. Then the foreman's daughter, pretty Sally Lou, said "Jed," (she always called him Jed), she said, "Jed, why don't you put a Want-Ad in the Valley/Pleasanton Times?" Well Old Jed, he did just that, and sure enough he found a whole passel of folks that wanted his gear, and were willing to pay for it! For more information about Times Want-Ads, call:

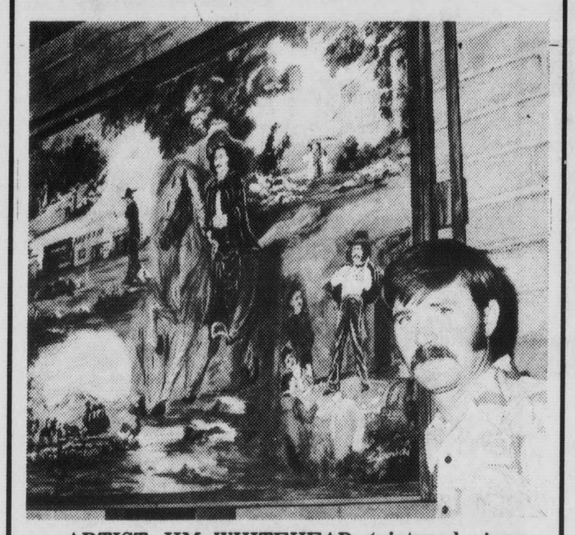
BI-CENTENNIAL FLAGS are the big thing waving over the schools of Livermore these days. O, say can't you see the one designated for Granada High School and presented to Student Body President Jim Cross by the Livermore Lions Club represented by Terry Sidwell of Valley Bank? Chief Custodean Frank Woddell is about to run this bi-centennial variation of our stars and stripes up the pole. There was also a contingent of students on hand for the first unfurling. This included Pam Lee, Kristine Jensen, Man Struthers, Sure Rizzo and Scott Campbell.



ARTIST JIM WHITEHEAD (pictured above with his mural-portrait of Joaquin Murrieta) says he spent countless hours researching the life of the famed California highwayman before applying brush to canvas.

According to Jim, who is an employe of the Livermore Unified School District, there is so much fiction mixed in with the fact about Murrieta it is very difficult to stick to a 'true' story.

His current large-scale project hangs on the west wall of Granucci's in Livermore. In addition to the central figure of the colorful bandit, Whitehead has painted various episodes in Joaquin's life. Some are real. Others are fanciful. This, of course is an artist's perogative. Whitehead says that he could never find in the dozen, or more, books he read any reference to proof that Murrieta ever held up a stagecoach. However, pictorially it makes a very good scene and thus is incorporated into the mural.

Below, Maynard Moreland owner of the local establishment for liquid refreshment congratulates Whitehead on the Completion of the painting. Moreland is very enthusiastic about Jim's work and invites everyone in to see the historical epic.

Realtors' Leader Welcomes Approval of Futures Contract Mortgage Market

There is a new mortgage market in the future of the real estate industry.

"It could be one of the greatest developments in modern history for mortgage financing," Richard C. Farrar of Hayward said. He is the president of the 80,000 member California Association of Realtors, the largest state real estate organization in the nation.

The Commodity Futures Trading Commission last week approved a new futures contract for trading in home mortgage-backed certificates guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA). The contract is expected to help stabilize interest rates for home financing by allowing financial institutions to transfer to investors the risk resulting from changes in interest rates during the formation of mortgage pools and sale periods.

"This new market will not compete with any existing sources of mortgage money," Farrer stated. "Instead it will augment those which already exist. It should attract billions of dollars annually into the mortgage market which otherwise would never be available to the housing industry. It will attract money from the almost unlimited speculative market.

"Our association feels that if there had been a mortgage futures market several years ago, the housing industry would never have had to suffer through the tight money crunch which now is beginning to ease."

One of the important features of this method of dealing in mortgages is that it will enable lenders and buyers to know what the going interest rate on home mortgages is ahead of time because those rates will be determined by the futures market, according to the CAR chief.

"The ability to know ahead of time what future financing costs will be is expected to be invaluable to builders and developers," Farrer said. "For those contemplating a project that requires long range planning before construction begins, it could mean the difference between making a profit or suffering a loss because they will be able to obtain commitments today for the future at a predetermined cost. Additionally, it will assist those persons buying homes by helping to regularize interest rates for the segment of the home finance industry which trades in the mortgage market."

The CAR leader concluded that this new market will be a boost to home-buyers who take out a fixed rate mortgage during a period of high interest rates. "By selling short, they will be able to make substantial profit when interest rates drop to offset the expense of being tied to a high fixed rate mortgage," he said.

Central Sanitary District wants confidential files

MARTINEZ — A feud over "confidential" assessor's documents has been brought to court by the Central Sanitary District for a decision.

Central contends that it can save $200,000 in setting sewer service charges by using information already compiled by the assessor's office.

But Assessor Fred Wanaka, backed by the county counsel's office, refuses to release the computerized documents which tell the use of every property in the sanitary district.

Central San is under federal orders to institute sewer service charges by the end of next year to pay for operation of its new sewage treatment plant.

Failure to do so will mean the district would lose $3 million in federal grant money already anticipated for construction of the plant which is now 55 per cent complete.

John Bohn, sanitary district lawyer, filed suit for a writ of mandate to order the county to release the information.

A hearing has been set for Nov. 1 at which time the county must show cause why the documents shouldn't be released.

Bohn noted that there is a state law which makes the property use information confidential.

Central San is challenging that, contending that another public taxing agency should be privy to information developed by the assessor's office.

If the sanitary district cannot get the information, Bohn said it would have to conduct its own survey of structures to determine the use.

Use of a structure will be crucial to determining the amount of the sewer service charge, explained William Dalton, Central San assistant general manager.

Dalton said the federally-mandated service charge would enable the district board of directors to cut the Central San tax rate from the present 61 cents per $100 assessed valuation to 30 cents.

While a tax cut sounds pleasant, it's not necessarily good news for property owners.

Dalton figures the service charge will be $50 to $80 per year and that people will have higher tax bills as a result. The service charge will be a separate part of the district tax bill.

The city of Concord, which contracts for sewage services from Central San, will not be affected by the sanitary district charge, Dalton said.

Instead, he added, Concord must revise its current sewer service charge to protect federal grants which it has received.

A large display of plants will be sold by the California High Landscape Committee to raise money for their project of making the school green and beautiful.
